INTRODUCTION

The Revenue Canada Summary Report is published yearly by the Government of Yukon, Bureau of Statistics. Data presented were derived from the most current available statistics released by Revenue Canada.

Data in sections 1 and 3 were taken from an annual publication entitled, Revenue Canada Taxation Statistics. The information in this publication is based on a sample set of returns. Data in sections 2 and 4 were based on 100% coverage and were taken from Revenue Canada Detailed Locality Tables. The data in sections 5 and 6 represent a deflated version of sections 3 and 4, respectively. In some cases entries may not sum to marginal totals due to independent random rounding.

This report is subdivided into three main parts. Part A analyzes data from the 1983 tax year and compares Yukon and Canada in Section 1 and highlights Yukon in Section 2. Part B provides a time series analysis (1973-1983) highlighting Yukon in Section 3 and selected Yukon communities in Section 4. Part C analyzes changes in real income between 1973 and 1983 in Yukon (Section 5) and in selected Yukon communities (Section 6).

Data presented in Sections 3 and 4 are deflated to the base year 1973 using the 1983 Consumer Price Index. Income values are deflated to control for such extraneous factors as inflation, thereby, enabling a realistic comparison of average income over time.

Revenue Canada is the most comprehensive source of income data for Yukon. Income data for Yukon and its communities are released on a yearly basis by Revenue Canada. The following report is an excellent source of data for policy makers evaluating income related topics.

PART A

SECTION 1 – YUKON and CANADA (1983)
SECTION 2 – YUKON and SELECTED COMMUNITIES (1983)

HIGHLIGHTS – SECTION 1

* The average income in Yukon for 1983 ($19,148) was 10.5% higher than that for Canada ($17,333).

* The average income for males in Yukon ($24,392) was 76.2% higher than for females ($13,841). Males, for Canada as a whole, earned 98.4% more than females.

* In 1983 business employees were the single largest occupation group in Yukon (5,359) with an average income of $19,205 compared to $19,350 for Canada.

* The highest average income in 1983 was earned by the Professionals occupation group, with $32,612 for Yukon and $48,268 for Canada as a whole.

* In 1983 the largest percentage of returns in both Yukon (34.1%) and Canada (45.8%) are in the less than $10,000 category. The income distribution pattern for Yukon is quite different than that for Canada. The Yukon pattern is characterized by fewer filers earning less than $20,000 and more earning greater than or equal to $30,000. For Canada the opposite pattern is true.

* In 1983 wages and salaries represented 82.2% of all income for Yukon and 72.7% for Canada.

* Unemployment Insurance benefits represent the single largest component of transfer payments for Yukon, contributing 5.7% to income, compared to 3.6% for Canada.

PART B

SECTION 3 – YUKON (1973–1983)
SECTION 4 – YUKON and SELECTED COMMUNITIES (1978–1983)

HIGHLIGHTS – SECTION 3

* For the period 1973-1983 the average income in Yukon increased from $8,004 to $19,148. The average income for females increased from $4,737 to $13,841 while the average income for males increased from $10,832 to $24,392.

* The average income for pensioners showed the largest increase rising from $3,045 in 1973 to $10,818 in 1983.

* In 1973, 1.2% of Taxable Returns in Yukon were in the greater than or equal to $25,000 category, compared with 39.6% in 1983.

* Wages and salaries remained the dominant source of income for Yukon for the period 1973-1983; however, its percentage of income dropped from 90.1% to 82.2%. Transfer Payments marked the largest percentage increase rising from 4.6% of income in 1973 to 7.9% in 1983.

Note: Due to extraneous factors (i.e. inflation) increases in average income do not necessarily represent an increase in real income.
